LABOR WILL BE NEUTRAL IN CAMPAIGN

ORGANIZATION NOT TO THROW STRENGTH
WITH EITHER PARTY

Will Work To Elect Solons Favorable To Its Program

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Organized labor does not plan to take sides in the present presidential campaign.

Its non-partisan policy is expected to be reaffirmed at the meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in Atlantic City next week.

Labor will work within both parties to secure election of senators and representatives who are favorable to the federation's legislative program.

While withholding comment in advance of the council meeting, federation officials declared today that organized labor has no grudge either with Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover or Governor Al Smith of New York. William Green, president, and other officials, however, do not believe that the anti-injunction planks in either party platform were strong enough. The federation feels that one of the greatest obstacles in the path of labor today is the alleged misuse of injunctive powers by federal and state courts. They point to the coal strike injunctions as examples.

Labor officials have consulted both Hoover and Smith about the injunction question and have requested the candidates to make their positions clear in their acceptance speeches.

Four years ago, at a council meeting in Atlantic City, the federation decided to stray from its non-partisan policy and endorsed the La Follette independent candidacy. Senator La Follette polled less than 5,000,000 votes, and carried but one state, Wisconsin, in the electoral college. Proposals have been made to enlist the federation in a new third party movement which would be built up during the next four years and enter the lists with a presidential candidate in 1932. The movement would be centered around the La Follette-Norris progressive group in the Senate. A shoulder has been turned to the project, because the present officialdom is irrevocably opposed to a separate labor party or a party with labor as a nucleus.

Aside from anti-injunction legislation, the A. F. of L. is most keenly interested in child labor legislation and prohibition. It has stood for prohibition of beer and wine for prohibition of their sale and wine. The coalition from the council. The miners union has made little headway in the fight against the operators, and has now allowed local districts to make wage settlements at a rate below the $7.50 Jacksonville scale. This is a sharp retreat from the position the union took when the miners walked out a year ago last April. The federation is planning to enlist strongly in the fight for regulatory coal legislation.

BABE SAVES LIFE?

ASSASSIN OF OREGON MAY HAVE LIFE SPARED

MEXICO CITY, July 25.—Possibility that Jose De Leon Toral, slayer of President-Elect Alvaro Obregon, may escape death for his deed loomed today.

Leaders of the Obregonista faction believe that Toral was only a tool in the hands of the Laborites. In a public statement they demanded the removal of all Laborite officials from office, saying that members of this minority party had played upon Toral's fanatical religious views in such a way as to bring on the slaying. In the same statement they said that removal of the Laborites would be true justice and that the death of the assassin was not necessary.

VETERANS MUST PAY HIGH INTEREST FOR INSURANCE LOANS

Rate Increase Puts
Heavy Penalty On Soldier Borrowers

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Directly hit by the efforts of the government to check speculative activities through the federal reserve system, World War veterans are paying over a million dollars a year additional interest as a result of the 1-1/2 per cent increase in re-discount rates.

This was disclosed today at the veterans bureau. Loans made to veterans on adjusted service certificates are at the interest rate of two per cent above the re-discount rate, according to the law. This rate is charged by the veterans bureau and the banks, both of which turn on the bonus policies.

Several of the reserve banks are on a five per cent re-discount level, meaning that veterans are forced to pay seven per cent interest on their loans. Already the Chicago reserve bank is considering a jump to six per cent and when one bank raises most of the others are likely to follow.

There is nothing that the veterans bureau can do about the situation to relieve veterans of the unusually high interest rate, a bureau official said. "The law must be carried out."

Every one per cent advance in the re-discount rate costs veterans $697,911 on the basis of the present volume of loans outstanding on bonus certificates—$89,791,000. Loans were outstanding to 715,890 veterans at the last report made by the bureau.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 25.—Youngstown gas consumers will save $370,000 annually if demands made Tuesday by city officials of the East Ohio Gas Company, are granted. Youngstown asks that the cost of 5,000 cubic feet of gas, now $3.60, be reduced to $3.10. The present franchise provided that a rate of $3.35 for the same amount of gas be charged after August 23.

BLONDE PANACEA FOR MAX

Barbara Young Understands Novelist's Complexes She Says.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Characterizing herself as the panacea for the multitudinous ills besetting Maxwell Bodenheim, blonde Barbara Young today waited for the eccentric poet of Greenwich Village to be healed from his hiding and be healed.

"I'm the only one who can save him from his complexes," Barbara explained with the air of a physician sure of her medicines. Barbara said he broke an appointment with her when he fled to escape notoriety incident to the river suicide of Virginia Drew, twenty-four, another literary client of the poet-novelist. He wanted advice under those trying circumstances.

Now she hopes he will make a fresh engagement and lay bare his troubled spirit. Bodenheim variously is reported to be hidden in the Village, in Maine, in Chicago and in Canada.

"HERE COMES THE SHOW BOAT--"

Girl Writer Joins Troupe Of Ohio River-Boat Players And Tells Of Her Experiences.

ON BOARD AN OHIO RIVER SHOW BOAT, July 25.—Here I am, part of a show boat crew, steaming down the Ohio river.

Soon we'll turn a bend, tie up and the calliope will begin playing.

Then, at night, the crowd comes and the show goes on. It was that way last night, my first night aboard a show boat. I'm "getting" the life first hand. And, oh, what a joy of a life!

Pushed by Towboat
The show boat, you know, is a floating theater (with sleeping cabins also), pushed by a stern-wheel towboat of the midwestern river type.

No one excited I hardly know where to begin. But I must tell you all about it!

The coming of the show boat is a great event on the rivers, and crowds line the banks to greet us each morning as we have in sight and tie up at the steamboat landing. Then the calliope begins to play. What a joyous din it is! By the time it has wheezed out its first tune all the youngsters in town have turned out to gaze at the boat. All the while the music is being played those on board cease conversation because they can't be heard above the din. Its piercing notes carry for ten miles in any direction.

Oh, That Calliope
"Show boat's arrived!" the calliope shrills and the countryside prepares for an evening's entertainment.

Now let's leave the crowd on the bank and go for a tour of the boat. The box office is at the front end of the flat bottomed craft, and across the hall from it is a bedroom occupied by the leading man and his wife, Billy and Josie Bryant. The downstairs also houses the auditorium with its 750 seats and the stage. Directly in back of the stage is the "green room," where the actors make quick changes and rest between cues.

Upstairs is the balcony and two sleeping rooms and a large "front porch," which extends across the entire bow of the boat. The bedrooms have beds instead of bunks, and feather ticks!

The performers' quarters are at the stern of the boat.

Over We Go!
Now we'll leave the show boat proper and explore the steamboat, Valley Belle, which propels it.

On the top deck steam is pouring from the calliope as it tumbles, turns its shrill tune. Below deck, Hannah, the cook, is preparing a meal in the kitchen just off the dining room. There are two

OPERATORS WILL CO-OPERATE WITH DONAHAY CONFERENCE

CLEVELAND, July 25.—"We will as always, give careful consideration to any communication from the governor," said S. H. Robbins, president of the Ohio Coal Operators' Association, today when informed that Governor A. V. Donahay had invited operators and miners of this state to a joint conference at Columbus Thursday.

"I hope he won't send any such invitation, though," Robbins added. An invitation extended by Lee Hall, president of the Ohio United Mine Workers of America, to the operators asking that they be represented at a conference in Columbus July 26, was declined by Robbins in a telegram last week.

The governor is finding that the preparation of an address in which he must deal exclusively with national issues is much more exacting.

The governor already has made his position clear to the country on what are expected to be two of the chief issues of the coming campaign—prohibition and farm relief. The day after he was nominated he sent a telegram to the Houston convention declaring, in substance, that he felt that the Volstead law should be modified. Subsequently he wired the head of the Indiana Farm Bureau that in the event of his election he would immediately call a conference to work out a concrete plan for farm relief for submission to Congress.

The notification ceremony will take place on the steps of the capitol and will be broadcast through a chain of ninety radio stations.

It was reported today that Franklin D. Roosevelt, who placed the governor in nomination at the Houston convention, may be asked to preside. Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the notification committee, will formally acquaint the governor with the fact that he has been nominated.

DARING GUNMAN GETS $40 DURING DAYLIGHT HOLD-UP ON TUESDAY

Richard Considine, Manager Of W. Main St., Store, And Customer, Subdued By Gun; "Coming Back Next Week" Says Bandit

While the manager, Richard Considine, and Frank Long, who was in the grocery at the time, were forced to stand with their hands upraised and backs turned, an armed, unmasked bandit staged a daylight holdup at the W. Main St. store of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company at 4:45 Tuesday afternoon and escaped with $49.19, all the money that was in the cash register.

Warning Considine "not to hurry out to report this, as I am coming back next week," the bandit ran out of the store, through the boulevard in the center of Main St., west of the grocery, and is believed to have escaped in an automobile parked on the opposite side of the street.

Considine and Long hurried out of the grocery as soon as the screen door slammed behind the bandit, and saw him disappear across the street, near the B. and O. railroad, but further view was concealed by shrubbery in the boulevard. Considine said that several persons in the neighborhood said that they had seen a man answering his description of the bandit enter a car which was parked on the opposite side of the street and drive away. Police also investigated a theory that he might have escaped afoot through the railroad yards.

Considine told police that he believed the bandit was a stranger who entered the grocery in the forenoon and made a small purchase. He was alone in the grocery with Long who was talking to him when the bandit entered in the afternoon. A revolver in his hand was concealed by a handkerchief and neither man saw the weapon until, as the stranger approached them, he jerked off the concealing handkerchief, thrust the gun against Considine's stomach, and forced both men toward the rear of the store where he told them to stand with their backs turned and hands upraised.

"I wouldn't do this but I need the money, and I am going to get it," he said. He scooped up all the money in the cash register, and with the gun still in his hand asked Considine and Long if they had any money in their pockets. When Considine said the fact that he had banked money at noon prevented the bandit making a much larger haul.

The robber was described as about 35 years of age, fair complexioned, light hair, weighing about 155 pounds and about five feet six inches tall. He was attired in dark gray trousers, light shirt, and straw sailor hat. He was costless.

GAZETTE TO STAGE FIGHT PARTY

Will Broadcast Tunney-Heeney Go Here Thursday

Every fight fan is invited to THE GAZETTE radio-fight party in front of the GAZETTE Bldg., 8 Detroit St., Thursday evening.

For the advantage of fans who want to hear the action story of the battle between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney, the Anzac blacksmith, this newspaper is arranging its popular radio hook-up to pick up the fight report from the air Thursday night.

Graham McNamee, king of radio announcers, will broadcast the blow-by-blow story from the ring side with all the pep and action he can put into a fight broadcast. Fans will remember his remarkable work as announcer for Tunney's last two fights, when the champion met and defeated the ex-kicker Jack Dempsey. Phillips Carlin, another famed radio expert, will supplement the work of McNamee, giving the "color" story from the ring side about the fighters and the crowds.

The program will start at 8:30 o'clock, Xenia time, with the big bout scheduled to get under way at 9 p. m. THE GAZETTE will pick up the radio report as relayed through Station WSAI, Cincinnati, on its own receiving set and will broadcast it to the crowd through the huge horn in a second floor window of the Gazette Bldg., after increasing the volume through this newspaper's own RCA 104 loud-speaker.

Fans will be able to hear the ring, the voice of the referee, the bell, the comments and considerable other "atmosphere" of the big fight. Next thing to being at the ring side in New York will be to attend THE GAZETTE fight show and it may be better than being in some of the distant seats in the last Dempsey-Tunney go at Chicago last summer. # WILL YOU HELP?

Xenia has long needed an auditorium which the public would be free to use for large and small audiences. Such an auditorium is now under way in Shawnee Park and it will be a gift to the public, largely from the generous donations of former residents of Xenia, together with equally generous donations from a half dozen Xenians who are interested in our community.

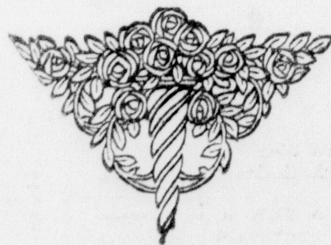

So far the committee has sought only large subscriptions, but they are still several thousand dollars from the goal necessary to complete the erection of the building. It is planned as a memorial for our Home-Coming and every effort will be made to complete it for that occasion so that there may be a central meeting point for our visitors. After that event, it will be for the use of the general public.

The committee is sure that there are many people living in Xenia who want to have a part in this memorial building and we are now ready to accept small donations. If you feel that you want to contribute to this fund so that your name may be placed on a printed list to go in the corner stone of the building, please hand your donations to Mr. M. L. Wolf, Cashier of the Citizens National Bank. Contributions of any amount will be acceptable. School children may give as small as fifty cents and their names will be placed on the list of donors. The corner stone will be laid with appropriate ceremonies soon, so please act promptly if you wish to have a part in the erection of the building.

Will all contributors who have thus far pledged, please hand check to Mr. Wolf at once.

The committee is appealing to all public-spirited citizens to help in the erection of this building which will stand for many years as a tribute to the enterprise and patriotism of the citizens generally.

THE COMMITTEE.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD'S ENTREATY—My son give me thine heart, and let thine eyes observe my ways.—Prov. 23:26.

REASON FOR BEING FRIENDLY

The voters of German descent in America in swinging to Hoover, are paying a just debt. Their leaders know that it was above all, Hoover who persuaded the Allied leaders to relax the blockade around starving Germany in 1919 so that American foodstuffs could pull the German people through the dismal spring which followed their defeat.

The French bitterly fought this, and would have maintained the blockade even though the fighting was over and the German children were dying by the thousands. The raising of the blockade on foodstuffs accomplished two things—it enabled the Germans to survive until the autumn harvest, and it permitted the American farmer to market at a good price a crop which had been contracted by the allies and then cancelled with the armistice.

Hoover thus fought off the inevitable agricultural depression for one more year. The Allies permitted the entry of foodstuffs into Germany, but stipulated that they must be distributed by Hoover. The raising of this blockade was only possible through him—a man whom both sides knew to be fair and disinterested.

IRONY OF FATE

Some of the shivering descendants of the Caesars, sprinkled over the white Arctic ice by Nobile, have been picked up. It now seems we are nearing the unhappy ending of a pathetic drama in which tragedy is blended with a grim comedy. Of course Nobile should never have started, and of course it was in the grisly cards that Amundsen, his rival, should have perished in attempting to rescue the pompous and vain commander.

Still another ray of grim humor lights the latest rescue.

This Fascist expedition, undertaken by the most gaudily reactionary government of Europe, was hauled in by the slack of its pants and nap of its gold lace collar by the ice breaker Krassin, manned by Communists and operated by the Soviet government to keep open the Arctic trade channels in late spring and early fall. It was the Communists, not the Socialists, who displayed the heroism, and the Soviet government, not the Italian dictatorship which lands on the first page.

All these things Mussolini can read by the cold northern light if he will take that Napoleonic hand out of his bosom long enough to pick up the morning paper.

It is so very hard to keep both the times and the people good.

The hand that rocks the cradle doesn't roll the cigaret.

The only thing wrong with any country is the people.

It takes two to start a fight, but only one to finish it.

THERE'S A REASON

There's a reason. It may take some investigation to find it, but it is always there. About 20 years ago a young man came from a Slavic country in Europe and settled in New York City like thousands of other young men from Poland, Bulgaria, Servia. Not long ago this man paid millions for one of the famous residences on Fifth avenue. He tore it down and built an apartment house, costing another million or two. Not content with that deal, he turned around and bought another rich piece of Fifth avenue property, tore it down and built another apartment house.

Investigation shows that this young man, when he landed here, began to put in long hours and hard work. He paid no attention to the clock, ate little, played little. There is always a reason.

THE BEST SELLER

The Bible or a part of it has been printed in a fresh language every six weeks for the last ten years. In one year 435 tons of scripture were sent out from Bible House, London. In that printing house one can see Bibles written with a twig or bamboo staves, and on bark with ink made of soot. There one can see a Latin Bible written by hand probably in the eleventh century. There one can see the first Bible ever printed in an Indian language—and the first Bible ever printed in North America in any language—the Bible for the Indians made by John Eliot.

The Bible is the greatest of all sellers.

THE EXPECTED

Men and women can, for years, maintain the outside while the inside is crumbling. They trifle with their habits and health. They trifle with their business relationships. They forget that it is an ordered universe, that nothing ever happens by chance. After awhile the fall comes. Somebody says: "Who would have thought it? It is always the unexpected that happens." That is not true. It is the expected that happens. The outside is maintained while the inside is crumbling. We can't keep it up. The expected happens.

CARD-INDEXING YOURSELF

The average Frenchman has himself card-indexed like an American industry. He knows what he makes and what he spends. He knows where the money goes. Do you? He keeps household books. He saves himself a lot of grief a lot of disappointment, and shock.

BACK OF BARBARISM

Contempt for human life is the first and surest sign of a return to barbarism. Crime is a definite departure from the highest ideals of which the human race is capable. What is it in the American people, what is it in the habit of life in the United States that predisposes us to lawlessness and crime?

Perhaps there is too much "what's the use" attitude in America. There are too many of us who say that nothing can be done about things.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 25.—This is the place to look for unusual occupations that pay big money. One man gets $25,000 a year as a teataster; another, $500 a week as a button designer; a third, commissions totalling $75,000 to $100,000 as an advisor on the organization of charity fund drives. The list can be extended indefinitely.

There is, for instance, one John Hanrahan, who devotes himself entirely to the profession of "magazine consultant," or physician and surgeon to all-journal publications. He takes them in hand, finds the flaws and prescribes remedies that'll attract advertising and circulation. He makes money at it and so do the magazines.

More than three-fourths of the Pullman cars that go out of New York have upper berths entirely empty. Travelers have a prejudice against them that compels railroad companies to carry enough Pullmans to provide lower berths for all who desire to travel. Yet, as all seasoned travelers know, there is more air and less train-motion in an upper. Barring slight inconvenience in getting in and out, which is unnecessary if the porter and his ladder are called, the only difference between upper and lower berth is the price and the length, the upper berth being slightly longer.

Americans are funny that way, as every one with anything to sell knows. When two articles are offered, the one with the higher price is the most favored, regardless of its quality. Almost every store simply has to offer goods in a variety of prices, not because the quality of the goods demands it, but because the women shopper demands a selection in prices.

New York has its "country stores," too. In every residential neighborhood, there is a peculiar store in between delicatessen, radio and drug stores. It has no special name, but has all the range and variety of the cross-roads store. It also has its hangers-on, who loiter at the soft-drink stand or tobacco counter or electric appliance display to watch the purchases of customers and trade gossip. True to type, New York's "country store" is a social center.

Summer cooling systems of the bigger Broadway cinema palaces are so efficient as to be uncomfortable. So many persons sneeze in them that the managements provide aspirin tablets in all retiring rooms.

The accordion player in one of Broadway's "big" jazz orchestras was a blind beggar, who played the instrument to attract nickels and dimes until the orchestra leader happened to hear him play. He is married and has four children, but he and his wife are living apart. His wife says they were happy when he was a beggar, but now that he is getting $200 a week, he is too arrogant to live with.

Five of the six chorus beauties drafted a year ago from Broadway by Jean Paton as mannequins for his Paris fashion salon, have married millionaires. They met over there. Give the little girls a hand!

Girls don't wait until they're 20 to run away from home to New York now. The average age of the hundreds of runaway girls who annually come to the attention of the New York Girl's Service League, has dropped to 15. Many come to New York at 13.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

A friend of mine is the most successful salesman in his county at introducing a new-fangled type of heating plant. Other men who work just as hard as he does seem unable to do much more than half as well. I asked him for his secret.

"I simply cash in on the natural propaganda spirit that lies in every human breast," he told me. "Every man wants to see his friends have the same make of automobile and same breed of dog that he does. If you own an Airedale and you see a friend about to buy a collie, you are inclined to say 'Now, it's your affair, but if you ask me, I wouldn't take any chances on a collie. I'd get an Airedale!'"

"So I go to everybody who already owns one of our plants and ask him for names of friends who might be interested. I ask also for permission to use his name as reference. Since everybody loves to have people call up and ask for advice, such permission is readily granted. Indeed, most of the men I see on such an errand often to call up their friends themselves and insist that they buy one of our plants. Thus every customer becomes an assistant salesman for me."

Chopin Film at Monte Carlo "La Valse d'El Adieu," described as "a page from the life of Chopin," was recently shown at Monte Carlo. During the showing incidental music, consisting of selections from Chopin's works, were played on the piano by Mlle. Magdeleine Brang and by the Casino Orchestra. The film was produced by Henry Roussel, and was given a favorable reception.

HAIR DYES

This is not only an important subject, but one of primary interest. There are some women I know who are unusually fortunate in retaining the color of their hair until well past middle age. Other women turn gray in youth.

No woman turns gray overnight, whatever they may think on the subject. So if, in the stages we recognize the condition it is possible that something may be done to prevent the development of gray hair.

Two prominent German physicians claim to have restored color to gray hair by giving sulphur and iron internally and of egg. I can see some reason for it being effective, but I have not experimented sufficiently to permit me to subscribe to the recorded statement.

The hair dye in common use very often contains arsenic, which I personally condemn most emphatically. It may do great and lasting harm.

Many of you have asked me from time to time ways of restoring color to the hair, and while my answers have not been too encouraging, I have tried to let you know the most harmless and most likely agents.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet For Children"

The Daily Foundation Diet

Mrs. G. You are still 55 pounds overweight, according to the rule of 110 pounds for 5 feet in height (in stocking feet) and 51-2 pounds for each inch over that, and you should continue to reduce your weight slowly until you reach normal.

It is very important while reducing, especially where there is considerable to lose, to have the diet include all the needed vitamins, mineral elements and protein; otherwise the system will suffer. The only thing in diet that can be cut down on are the fats, starches and sugars. I will outline a foundation diet for you which you should have every day, reducing or not. If you go on 1,200 calories a day, you will have several hundred calories for things you like, for this foundation diet comes to 800-1000 C.

First: At least a half pound every day of some watery vegetables (the green leaf vegetables are especially good)—lettuce, spinach, celery, asparagus, watercress, beet top greens, cabbage, tomatoes, etc. A half pound of these, cooked or uncooked, without fat, will be approximately 50 calories. (Have raw carrots, raw cabbage, tomatoes—raw or cooked—and spinach often, for they are high in vitamins and minerals.)

Second: One-half pound of other vegetables, such as carrots, onions, parsnips and squash, etc. These will approximate about 100 C. without fat. Third: 200 to 300 C. of fruit, daily. (Good sized orange, apple, pear—100 C. each.) It is best to take a large share of the vegetables and fruits raw.

Fourth: At least one pint of skim or buttermilk in some form in cooking, drinks, or cheese. You need it for lime and complete protein. Children reducing should have at least three glasses of whole milk.) Fifth: One medium small potato, 100 C. OR one large slice of whole wheat bread, one-half inch thick, same number of calories, OR two-thirds of a cup of cereal. If you have starchy or sugary desserts, you can omit these.

Sixth: One to two teaspoonsful of cod liver oil (350 C. each) or two to four cod liver oil tablets (practically calorieless), or one tablespoonful of butter (100 C.), or equivalent in cream—to be sure of your supply of vitamin A.

Seventh: Protein. You must have more protein, besides what you get in the milk, so take three to four ounces of very lean meat or fish or two eggs (150 to 200 C. total).

Arrange your meals and menus to suit yourself. But don't exceed your calorie limit for the day. It is advisable to save a few calories for tea time and before going to bed.

Our pamphlet on the subject of reducing and gaining weight will give you more helpful information. The column rules for obtaining material we offer are to enclose two cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope for all articles except the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, for which ten cents in coin and the self-addressed, stamped envelope are necessary.

Miss K.—If you are tubercular, you should be under the care of a physician. We have an article on the subject which tells about diet, etc. It also gives a list of books written for the layman. See directions above for obtaining it.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed stamped envelope and two cents in coin for each article to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, ten cents in coin with fully s. a. s. e. must be enclosed. Address Dr. Peters in care of this paper.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Mrs. Willebrandt convinced the party managers, Republican and Democratic alike, are taking the women's vote more seriously this campaign than ever before.

They have wanted all they could get of it, to be sure, from the adoption of the Nineteenth amendment, but not with the same ardor that they do now. For one thing, this looks like a close fight.

Then again, women seem to be increasingly interested in public issues. It behooves the rival groups of bosses each to turn this developing interest to its own party's account.

But more than anything else, the leaders made the discovery during the recent convention that a woman politician can be just as good a politician as anybody else.

Previously, old-line masculinity had patronizingly recognized, here and there, one of the sisterhood as pretty fair at the game—for a woman.

Today, the slickest of the "G. O. P." crowd will take his oath that Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt is fully as capable at it as he himself. His corresponding professional in the Jeffersonian bunch is prepared to make affidavit that Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross has nothing to learn from him.

Neither Mrs. Willebrandt nor Mrs. Ross exactly emerged from obscurity. Both were already very well known.

Still, Mrs. Willebrandt's reputation was not built so much on the fact that she was an assistant U. S. attorney general as on the circumstance that she was the first woman to hold that particular job.

As for Mrs. Ross.—It was rather because she was a woman ex-governor than merely because she was ex-governor of Wyoming that she was famed. It was at Kansas City that

Mrs. Willebrandt convinced the brethren of her ability to run a steam roller as efficiently as any man of them all.

The credential committee's report was the roller entrusted to her guidance. Steering it is a mighty tricky piece of work. Provided it is done properly everything else goes as smoothly as silk, but no lump must be missed which might serve as an obstruction to proceedings later on. Every undesired element must be sketched flat.

We all knew whether it was or not, after Mrs. Willebrandt with that roll had been the rounds. A split level would not have indicated an inequality, from that time on.

It was almost too perfect, was monotonous. That was the only complaint. There will not even be any complaint that if the "G. O. P." wins on November 6, Party experts pronounced it the most remarkable technical performance they ever had seen.

Mrs. Ross made her record as a pre-convention campaigner for Alfred E. Smith.

Not that she is not keeping it up yet, but she started with the primaries and nothing could stop her—as the anti-Smith folks in California who tried to and could not, will testify.

And at Houston the delegates recognized it, by giving her a creditable vice presidential vote.

It was only complimentary, to be sure. The managers hardly felt that the time had come for a woman vice presidential candidate yet—but in 1932?—some of them are saying—who knows?

Lots of politicians think Mrs. Willebrandt is slated for a high place in the administration—maybe a cabinet post—if Hoover is our next president.

Or—if it's Smith—perhaps Mrs. Ross.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

One Who Knows

A short time ago a letter was printed in this column from a girl who was engaged to a boy whom she loved with all her heart. They thought they were not in a financial position to marry, but she was willing to give him all a husband's privileges because she loved him so. I pleaded with her to be firm and told her that it was better to marry and wait afterwards if they felt they could not wait. I also said a man was selfish to ask such a thing. Now comes a letter from a girl who knows whereof she speaks. She confirms my advice.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am writing this in answer to the girl who signed her letter Ramona. I say to you, Ramona, a thousand times, don't! Don't sacrifice your honor for love. Such love gives no reward. I am 23 and gave all for the man I loved, and today I only hold empty hands and a broken heart, while he has all life has to offer.

"A woman's honor is her only privacy of love, and when you sacrifice that the last resort of winning the one you love is lost, so please don't give a man your honor until he is willing to give you his name. A man who would ask such is not worthy of you, so don't. Your harvest will only be regret after it's too late. One who is paying the price of such love."

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Several days ago my sister got a phone call from a boy who wouldn't tell his name. He asked for

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am deeply in love with two boys of the same age. One knows I love him and he says I love him, but he doesn't act like it. The other one only says 'hello' when he sees me. They aren't bashful. I have done everything to attract their attention. 'Mrs. Lee, please give me some advice, for I have faith in you. LONESOME."

"So you are in love with both Lonesome. The boys are probably not attracted to you,

JAMESTOWN BEATS WEST CARROLLTON CUBS SUNDAY 3-2

Jamestown added another victory to its win column, Sunday afternoon, when it defeated the West Carrollton Cubs at strong West Carrollton in a hotly contested game by the score of 3 to 2.

The game was mostly a pitchers battle between Evans, for the winners and Hall for the losers. Both twirled good ball, Evans allowing only seven hits, walked one man and struck out seven. Hall allowed eight, safe hits, walked three, and struck out nine.

Jamestown scored one run in the fourth when L. Hollingsworth, was safe on first when the first baseman let his easy roller get by stole second, took third on Piffey's single and scored on a long sacrifice fly to left field, by Evans. The Cubs tied the score in the fifth when Evans hit a batter with the bases full. They took the lead in the seventh when they chased in another run scoring on an out at first, with the bases full. Jamestown won the game in the eighth by chasing in two runs. Piffey got to first on four balls, Ary was safe on first when the pitcher threw wild to first, both runners advanced and scored when Bock doubled to center.

Jamestown will play the Bowersville Bayliffs, next Sunday, at Price Park, Jamestown. Jamestown lineup: Bock s.s., Troutte lb., Leach of Moorman l.f., L. Hollingsworth 2b., Bales, 3b., Piffey, c., Evans p., F. Hollingsworth r.f., Ary l.f.

West Carrollton lineup: Furguson s.s., C. Dechart c.f., Stupp lb., F. Huff 2b., C. Tuphart l.f., L. Huff 3b., Boss C. Hall p., Dechart r.f., umpire Parris.

ENJOYS GLORIOUS HEALTH; GLAD TO INDORSE KONJOLA

"It Completely Ended My Stomach Trouble," Says This Man

Everywhere in Xenia and all the nearby towns, men and women are highly recommending this Konjola medicine which the Konjola Man is now explaining to the public at the Galaher Drug Store, Xenia. Konjola is helping thousands of people who have never benefited by any medicine or treatment before. It is especially beneficial in cases of stomach, liver, kidneys and bowel troubles, or rheumatism or neuritis.

Just a few days ago the following report was received from Mr. O. E. Gooding, No. 4 Miller Ave., Xenia, Ohio.

"I strongly indorse Konjola after the amazing relief it gave me from all my health troubles," said Mr. Gooding. "It ended my stomach trouble and my whole system has been greatly benefited."

"I had taken nearly every medicine on the market trying to rid myself of the terrible misery of stomach trouble. I would become distressed after meals and all the medicine that I would take for relief had no effect upon me. The gas on my stomach caused me to become short of breath and it was almost insupportable for me to eat anything. I had such terrible dizzy spells that I could scarcely walk without staggering and would nearly fall. I finally got in such a bad condition that I could not eat and was bothered very much by constipation. In spite of taking all kinds of laxatives the constipation came right back again. I would have the most terrible stomach aches that seemed to always stay right in the back of my head. These troubles gradually grew worse until they finally affected my nerves. The least little noise would upset me so that I would go all to pieces."

"Then Konjola was brought to my attention and I was told of the results other people were getting from this medicine. So I made up my mind to give it a trial. I went right to the source of my health troubles. By the time I had finished the first last found the medicine I had always been looking for. My stomach never bothered me in the least any more and the gas bloating does not come over me. I am never dizzy and I can walk any place I want to, without becoming the least bit dizzy. Konjola cleaned the poisons from my system, making future laxatives unnecessary. My nerves are stronger and at night I can go to sleep and at night I get into bed the next morning I get up feeling full of pep and vigor. Konjola surely did the work for me and I want to indorse this medicine to others."

The Konjola Man is at the Galaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

HEENEY BUILT LIKE DEPOT

Marshal Otey Walker Says It Will Take Banana Peel To Down Challenger

By MARSHAL OTEY WALKER
Sports Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 25.—I said I didn't see how anybody could lick Gene Tunney unless he stood still.

And now I don't see how anyone can whip Tom Heenev unless he moves, because he is built along the lines of the Hootstown union depot—two stories high, square at the ends and plenty of material in between.

The way Tom looks to me, lists ought to bounce off him like scalding off a movie star.

But if Tunney wants a tip on how to floor Heenev, I can give it to him. The champ should come into the ring eating a banana, being careful to throw the peel in front of Tom's chair. When Heenev starts to get up he would slip on the peel and land in what, to say the least, would be an undignified, not to say embarrassing, position. By the time Heenev had crawled up out of the hole he had knocked in the floor the referee could count ten by skipping the odd numbers.

SAYS TOM HAS FIGHTING HEART

By JOHNNY DUNDEE

Undeclared World's Featherweight Champion and Former Junior Lightweight Champion Written Exclusively for Central Press and The Gazette

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 25.—The one outstanding thing about Thomas Heenev that impresses me as I watch his work-outs is his heart.

Heenev has plenty of courage and plenty of action in the training ring shows it. There has never been any question about it, either in the fast action of actual ring warfare. Heenev never permits an expression of annoyance to cross his face. Even when he is clipped severely on the chin or ear by a sparring partner his face maintains the same even, stolid look of determination.

Judging from the way he goes about his training I figure that Heenev considers himself a man of destiny just as Gene Tunney did in the first Dempsey fight. Tunney was convinced that he alone was the man destined to lift the title from Jack Dempsey.

Heenev is convinced that he is the man destined to beat Tunney. And nobody can tell him different. When asked how he was going to fight the champion he merely said "Just the same as Risko, Sharkey or anybody else." They throw a fighter in the ring with Tom and he immediately goes to work on him. No nerves, no wobbling, no over-anxiety. That is an ideal temperament for a boxer to make a consistent showing.

And another thing, Heenev is going to make this fight July 26 a good one. He is an aggressive boxer of the slugger. If two Tunneys got in the ring the battle would be interesting, from a scientific standpoint but hardly pleasing to the average fan. Heenev will keep Tunney on the move continually. He never loses and constantly follows his man from corner to corner shooting choppy right hooks and long looping lefts with plenty of sting to them.

Heenev is the sort of man who realizes the tremendous opportunity he has before him. He realizes he is fighting for the championship of the world. He started from an obscure beginning and that determination that so impresses me now must have pulled him through the long tough row of challengers he had to beat off to meet the champion.

Heenev is a frequent puncher. In one round of three minutes two punches to Tunney's one. He does not impress me as being speedy on his feet as Gene but he has sturdy underpinning and is less likely to fall from a blow on the chin or midsection.

You will have noticed that he

BELL BUZZARD IS SILENCED BY DEATH
MARYSVILLE, O., July 25.—The bell buzzard which has frequented the Union County for years, and became known to many farmers who have stopped in the fields to listen to the tinkling of the bell as it soars overhead, will be seen no more. The huge bird was found dead on a farm in Jackson Twp., the bell attached to its neck. The bell showed long wear. It is believed to be a small size cow bell.

MAKE-UP

Flavia always managed to have a lot of pretty girls around her studio.

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet Mary James, eighteen, sweet and good and clever, has an ambition to go on the stage. Helped by her Uncle Jules in France, Janet goes to New York, where the very first evening she is hit by a taxi but is not seriously injured. At the hospital she meets Dr. Ballard Riley, a big, handsome fellow, who the nurses say is a woman hater. Dr. Riley jokes with Janet when he finds she has just arrived from Big Sandy, Kentucky, to find fame and fortune in the big city. He lectures her, and gives her a lot of advice. Janet is overjoyed when Ballard Riley asks her for a date. The woman hater dating her!

At the Follies Janet meets Flavia Marlowe, about fifty years old, smartly gowned, modern and rich. Flavia is a patroness of the arts in Greenwich Village. She is just beginning to wrinkle and trying to hide it.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER VII

Besides, Flavia always managed to have a lot of young pretty girls around her studio. It was so easy to get plenty of men to call when you could say that there was a charming new friend for them to meet and you were quite sure she would drop in. That is a favorite trick of the declassé woman.

Flavia, in her boudoir, took up a mirror and scanned her face carefully. She shivered. There were tell-tale lines that no beauty treatment could possibly erase. The thought struck her with cold force, and she closed her eyes. A lump came into her throat and she clinched her hands and bit her lips to keep back the tears.

Old age! Oh, could it be possible that she, Flavia Marlowe, would so soon have to give in to the monster time. A sudden rage swept over her, and she cursed, under her breath, the unfairness of not being able to control life. She thought of the beauty of Janet and tried to imagine her growing old and withering. Of the softness of her face passing away, and the luster of her eyes dimming.

Yes, she was growing old. Perhaps two or three years, yet, she might live and enjoy life as she had before. But not much longer than that. Flavia remembered the girls with whom she had grown up, and was suddenly proud of how much more attractive and youthful she had remained than they. Why, they were old!

Flavia's little Japanese maid, whom she called Lotus Flower, called her to the telephone. It was Janet, whose eager young voice told her she was just about ready to start down to see her. She had told her to come down for tea and stay for dinner. It was nearly five.

Perhaps others would soon drop in. The tea hour was seldom without its surprises. Flavia rather looked forward to it on that account. She loved to entertain. It took her away from herself, and for a time gave her a chance to forget.

dog into her arms, crooning to him comfortingly, as though she were a little child, and blinked at her through his old eyes, kindly.

Janet hesitated before the door of Flavia Marlowe's studio, with her hand on the knocker. She was afraid it would make a loud noise. Suddenly she felt small and very young.

While she was standing there a big voice beside her, suddenly booming, frightened her nearly out of her wits:

"Is the little girl going to call on Flavia, too?"

Janet started and whirled. She saw a big man in tweeds, with a nice smile, and laughed weakly.

"I've never been here before. I wasn't sure if this was Mrs. Marlowe's house."

"It is." The big man towered above her, with his eyes glued to her beautiful face. "I'll ring. I'm calling on her, too, don'tcha know."

Lotus Flower opened the door. She was in a Japanese pants and coat affair that made her look about four feet tall, and decidedly sweet and appealing. Janet was horrified when the man brushed the cheek of the maid with a kiss that she tried to dodge.

Lotus Flower did not smile. She glowered in a quiet, dignified manner. He chuckled the little Chinese under the chin and laughed loudly.

Then he took Janet's hand quite familiarly, and led her back to the studio, where Flavia always served tea. Flavia looked up and laughed as the two entered.

"Well, Janet, I see you and Sir Henry are friends. This is a surprise."

Janet crossed to Flavia and dropped beside her on a wide divan piled high with cushions. She tried to sound worldly.

"Oh, I've never seen the man before in my whole life. He just found me hesitating in front of the knocker and rang for me."

Flavia introduced him as Sir Henry Martindale. She did not mention Janet's last name. It was a little unconventional habit. Her girl friends were never spoken of except as Olivia or Madelon or Marta.

The bell rang again, and a young man skipped in, his hand on his side. Falling on his knees, he kissed the hem of Flavia's ten gown with a flourish.

Janet was an interested and amused spectator. He was presented as "Putty," after Flavia had bent and kissed him. His eyes lighted as they fell on Janet, sitting in her little white organdie, with hands folded in her lap. Her face had lay on the sofa beside her, and her hair framed her face in coronation braids. "Putty" Bligh laughed his breath.

"Flav, my adored, where did you pick up this angel?"

Flavia smiled half-way, but Sir Henry thought that her eyes narrowed. Could she be jealous? The look was fleeting, and she patted Janet's hand.

"Oh, bless it. I found it at the theater the other night, at its first show. Think of it! It comes from Kentucky."

"Fast women and beautiful horses and corn liquor with a mule kick." "Putty" looked down at Janet's slim, white legs, in their nude stockings, with approval he did not try to hide.

Her face flushed. Flavia admonished him that he must not be rude to "the child" and moved over so that he could sit beside her—away from Janet.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Personal and confidential items about pictures and picture people:

To what extent are producers privileged to interfere in the private lives of its players? A producing firm is trying to prevent a scandal from involving one of its lady stars and a New York millionaire, claiming it has a right to protect one of its investments. The star is rebelling against the interference, insisting upon the right to live her own life.

The camera rarely does justice to the color of movie players' hair. Did you know Mary Astor, Nancy Carroll and Clara Bow are among the red-heads? Jack Pickford has heart trouble, and may never play again. The "Big Three" of filmdom now are Paramount, Metro-Goldwyn and Fox, the company known as First National having been shunted out of its position by Fox.

Jean Hersholt likes cold geese, liver, blue shirts and "Strange Interlude." He can tell a gloriously funny story about holding hands with Mae West, actress famed for her "sin woman" parts on Broadway, at a seance, and holding converse with a fellow in a sheet who was supposed to be the ghost of Valentino.

About 25 per cent of U. S. movie theaters are due to close in the next two years, showmen predict. Chain competition has caused many cities to be overbuilt with theaters. There now are 19,000 movie houses in the country.

James Cruze and Cecil B. DeMille are now directors for Metro-Goldwyn. DeMille took his stars with him when he left Pathe. Eva Von Berne, imported by M-G-M to play with John Gilbert had to be round tables in the tiny dining room, one for the Bryans and one for the performers. The crew eats at a long table. If you want to get fat just join a show boat crew! There may not be a great variety of food, but there's always lots of it. At least that is true of the boat on which I am.

The Valley Belle always houses the sleeping quarters of the crew. In The Moonlight

Now that darkness has settled over the water and the moon is lighting the shore let's attend the show. River folk are filling down the bank, some in overalls, some in their Sunday best. As they step away from the box office they are greeted by "Cap'n Sam" Bryant, who can just about call each one of them by name—he's been tramping on the river close onto twenty-five years.

We are ushered to seats by a pretty member of the chorus. An orchestra, whose members also are actors, entertains us. "Shorty," the fireman by day, is selling peanuts and candy. There isn't a great deal of candy being sold because money isn't plentiful on the river now—especially in the coal regions.

Hush! the lights have dimmed, the orchestra men have left the pit and gone through the trap door onto the stage, the big boys in the front row have stopped throwing peanuts and the curtain is going up.

A Play From Broadway
The play is "Broadway Jones," one of the most popular plays of George M. Cohan, noted New York producer-dramatist-actor. Billy Bryant always has been an admirer of Cohan since their vaudeville days.

When Billy was one of the "Four Bryans," and George Cohan was one of the "Four Cohans," Cohan gave Bryant rights to all his plays and promised to spend two weeks on the boat playing the role of "Broadway."

It's essentially the same "Broadway Jones" that metropolitan audiences laughed at when it was new, but its jokes have been modernized. Old jokes don't "get by" on the river today. Years ago when the show boat was the only entertainment along the streams jokes that were slightly moth-eaten could be told, but today, when nearly everybody has his radio, he demands something new on the stage.

"Folks come down to the boat," says Captain Billy, "asking: 'Did you hear that yarn Will Rogers told last night?' or 'Did you listen in on Al Johnson?'"

"Naturally, when they can tune in the very best of modern entertainment, at their own fireside, we have got to give them a better show than was necessary years ago."

"We'll wait until tomorrow to see the show."

THE OLD HOME TOWN

Farm Notes

CAREFUL SEEDING

Anticipating a shortage of seed wheat due to the short crop in Ohio this year, farmers should be particularly careful in securing their supply for seeding this fall, in the opinion of M. R. Maney of the Ohio Farm Bureau. A warning against seed wheat brought in from other sections of the country has just been received at the office of the Greene County Farm Bureau from Mr. Maney.

Ohio farmers have centered their attention on the production of soft winter wheat to which Ohio conditions are particularly adapted in Mr. Maney's opinion. Seed brought in from other sections may contain a sufficiently large percentage of other wheats to make its use inadvisable, while some stocks which may come in would be unadapted to Ohio conditions, in his opinion.

Through farm bureaus in all parts of the state, the Ohio farm bureau is attempting to secure and distribute supplies of re-cleaned quality wheats of Trumbull and Fulton wheats which are known to be pure and high yielding on Ohio farms. While this supply will not be certified seed it will be high quality wheat which will give good results in the field and prevent mixtures which would lower the standards of the Ohio product.

Best yields of wheat, according to Mr. Maney, are expected in the northwestern part of the state, particularly in the vicinity of Wayne County. There will be a supply of Ohio grown wheat ample to care for seed needs of all Ohio farmers if demands and supply can be pooled through the organization, he says.

LABOR WILL BE NEUTRAL IN CAMPAIGN

ORGANIZATION NOT TO THROW STRENGTH
WITH EITHER PARTY

Will Work To Elect Solons
Favorable To Its Program

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Organized labor does not plan to take sides in the present presidential campaign.

Its non-partisan policy is expected to be reaffirmed at the meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in Atlantic City next week.

Labor will work within both parties to secure election of senators and representatives who are favorable to the federation's legislative program.

While withholding comment in advance of the council meeting, federation officials declared today that organized labor has no grudge either with Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover or Governor Al Smith of New York. William Green, president, and other officials, however, do not believe that the anti-injunction plank in either party platform were strong enough. The federation feels that one of the greatest obstacles in the path of labor today is the alleged misuse of injunctive powers by federal and state courts. They point to the coal strike injunctions as examples.

Labor officials have consulted both Hoover and Smith about the injunction question and have requested the candidates to make their positions clear in their acceptance speeches.

Four years ago, at a council meeting in Atlantic City, the federation decided to stray from its non-partisan policy and endorsed the LaFollette independent candidacy. Senator LaFollette polled less than 5,000,000 votes, and carried but one state, Wisconsin, in the electoral college. Proposals have been made to enlist the federation in a new third party movement which would be built up during the next four years and enter the lists with a presidential candidate in 1932. The movement would be centered around the LaFollette-Norris progressive group in the Senate. A shoulder has been turned to the project because the present officialdom is irrevocably opposed to a separate labor party or a party with labor as a nucleus.

Aside from anti-injunction legislation, the A. F. of L. is most keenly interested in child labor legislation and prohibition. It has stood for prohibition since the Volstead act permit sale of beer and wine. The coal strike may receive serious attention from the council. The miners union has made little headway in the fight against the operators, and has now allowed local districts to make wage settlements at a rate below the $7.50 Jacksonville scale. This is a sharp retreat from the position the union took when the miners walked out a year ago last April. The federation is planning to enlist strongly in the fight for regulatory coal legislation.

TWO MORE DIE FROM HEAT IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 25.—Two deaths from heat early today brought the total of such fatalities in the last twenty-four hours to five. Two men also were removed to hospitals today after being prostrated by the high temperature.

The latest deaths were those of John Wood, 45, and Henry Ackley, 28, of St. George, Staten Island. Wood collapsed while driving his truck. He died in Harlem Hospital. Ackley collapsed on a bus and died while being taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

BABE SAVES LIFE?

BOSTON, July 24.—A smile flitted across the pale little face of thirteen-year-old Brenton Stotz as he lay on his cot in Peter Bent Brigham hospital today. Fond memories were his. In his hand he held a baseball—the ball which Babe Ruth hit yesterday. In making his fortieth home run of the season. Ruth had heard that little Brenton was close to death, that he kept asking for him. With the cheers of the Fenway Park fans still humming in his ears, the world's greatest baseball player went immediately to the hospital, autographed the home-run baseball and gave a surprise to Brenton. Babe told the lad to get better and he seemed to rally. "That fortieth home run may have saved a life."

ASSASSIN OF OBREGON MAY HAVE LIFE SPARED

MEXICO CITY, July 25.—Possibility that Jose De Leon Toral, slayer of President-Elect Alvaro Obregon, may escape death for his deed loomed today. Leaders of the Obregonista faction believe that Toral was only a tool in the hands of the Laborites. In a public statement they demanded the removal of all Laborite officials from office, saying that members of this minority party had played upon Toral's fanatical religious views in such a way as to bring on the slaying. In the same statement they said that removal of the Laborites would be true justice and that the death of the assassin was not necessary. Meanwhile the police are still searching for Manuel Trejo, who, Toral confessed, stirred him up to kill Obregon and put the death weapon in his hand. The deposed Laborite secretary of industry and commerce, Morones, is still in hiding.

VETERANS MUST PAY HIGH INTEREST FOR INSURANCE LOANS

Rate Increase Puts
Heavy Penalty On Soldier
Borrowers

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Directly hit by the efforts of the government to check speculative activities through the federal reserve system, World War veterans are paying over a million dollars a year additional interest as a result of the 1-1/2 per cent increase in re-discount rates.

This was disclosed today at the veterans bureau. Loans made to veterans on adjusted service certificates are at the interest rate of two per cent above the re-discount rate, according to the law, this rate is charged by the veterans bureau and the banks, both of which loan on the bonus policies.

Several of the reserve banks are on a five per cent re-discount level, meaning that veterans are forced to pay seven per cent interest on their loans. Already the Chicago reserve bank is considering a jump to six per cent and when one bank raises most of the others are likely to follow.

"There is nothing that the veterans bureau can do about the situation to relieve veterans of the unusually high interest rate," a bureau official said. "The law must be carried out."

Every one per cent advance in the re-discount rate costs veterans $697,911 on the basis of the present volume of loans outstanding on bonus certificates—$69,791,100. Loans were outstanding to 715,890 veterans at the last report made by the bureau.

WANT GAS CUT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 25.—Youngstown gas consumers will save $370,000 annually if demands made Tuesday by city officials of the East Ohio Gas Company, are granted. Youngstown asks that the cost of 5,000 cubic feet of gas, now $3.60, be reduced to $3.10. The present franchise provided that a rate of $3.85 for the same amount of gas be charged after August 23.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Characterizing herself as the panacea for the multitudinous ills besetting Maxwell Bodenheim, blonde Barbara Young today waited for the eccentric poet of Greenwich Village to emerge from his hiding and be healed. "I'm the only one who can save him from his complexes," Barbara explained with the air of a physician sure of her medicines. Barbara said he broke an appointment with her when he fled to escape notoriety incident to the river suicide of Virginia Drew, twenty-four, another literary client of the poet-novelist. He wanted advice under those trying circumstances.

ON BOARD AN OHIO RIVER SHOW BOAT, July 25—Here I am, part of a show boat crew, steaming down the Ohio river.

Soon we'll turn a bend, tie up and the callopie will begin playing. Then, at night, the crowd comes and the show goes on.

It was that way last night, my first night aboard a show boat. I'm "getting" the life first hand. And, oh, what a joy of a life!

Pushed by Towboat

The show boat, you know, is a floating theater (with sleeping cabins also), pushed by a stern-wheel towboat of the midwestern river type.

I'm so excited I hardly know where to begin. But I must tell you all about it.

The coming of the show boat is a great event on the rivers, and crowds line the banks to greet us each morning as we move in sight and tie up at the steamboat landing. Then the callopie begins to play.

OPERATORS WILL CO-OPERATE WITH DONAHAY CONFERENCE

CLEVELAND, July 25.—"We will, as always, give careful consideration to any communication from the governor," said S. H. Robbins, president of the Ohio Coal Operators' Association, today when informed that Governor A. V. Donahay had invited operators and miners of this state to a joint conference at Columbus Thursday.

CAMPAIGN FLAG OF SCOTT DISCOVERED

ASHLAND, O., July 25.—A flag, believed to have been used in the campaign of General Winfield Scott for the presidency in 1859 was unearthed here recently while excavations were being made for Ashland's new Court House. The flag which was made of homespun linen was not damaged although it was taken for a trip through the air by a steam shovel. On the flag were the words "Fuss and Feathers", which is said to have been the slogan in Scott's campaign. The flag is six feet long and four feet wide.

What a joyous time it is! By the time it has wheeled out its first time all the youngsters in town have turned out to gaze at the boat. All the while the music is being played those on board cease conversation because they can't be heard above the din. Its piercing notes carry for ten miles in any direction.

Oh, That Callopie
"Show boat's arrived!" the callopie shrills and the countryside prepares for an evening's entertainment.

Now let's leave the crowd on the bank and go for a tour of the boat. The box office is at the front end of the flat bottomed craft, and across the hall from it is a bedroom occupied by the leading man and his wife, Billy and Josie Bryant. The downstairs also houses the auditorium with its 750 seats and the stage. Directly in back of the stage is the "green room," where the actors make quick changes and rest between scenes.

Upstairs is the balcony and two sleeping rooms and a large "front porch," which extends across the entire bow of the boat. The bedrooms have beds instead of bunks, and feather ticks!

Over We Go!
Now we'll leave the show boat proper and explore the steamboat, Valley Belle, which propels it.

On the top-deck steam is pouring from the callopie as it tumbles, turns its shrill tune. Below deck, Hannah, the cook, is preparing a meal in the kitchen just off the dining room. There are two

WILL NOTIFY SMITH AUGUST 22; SPEECH OCCUPIES NOMINEE

ALBANY, N. Y., July 25.—With his notification ceremony set for August 22, Governor Al Smith today was preparing to put state affairs in such shape that for the next week or ten days he can devote himself almost exclusively to the preparation of the address he will deliver in formally accepting the Democratic presidential nomination.

The governor is finding that the preparation of an address in which he must deal exclusively with national issues is much more exacting.

The governor already has made his position clear to the country on what are expected to be two of the chief issues of the coming campaign—prohibition and farm relief. The day after he was nominated he sent a telegram to the Houston convention declaring, in substance, that he felt that the Volstead law should be modified. Subsequently he wired the head of the Indiana Farm Bureau that in the event of his election he would immediately call a conference to work out a concrete plan for farm relief for submission to congress.

The notification ceremony will take place on the steps of the capitol and will be broadcast through a chain of ninety radio stations.

It was reported today that Franklin D. Roosevelt, who placed the governor in nomination at the Houston convention, may be asked to preside. Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, chairman of the notification committee, will formally acquaint the governor with the fact that he has been nominated.

DARING GUNMAN GETS $40 DURING DAYLIGHT HOLD-UP ON TUESDAY

Richard Considine, Manager Of W. Main St., Store, And Customer, Subdued By Gun; "Coming Back Next Week" Says Bandit

While the manager, Richard Considine, and Frank Long, who was in the grocery at the time, were forced to stand with their hands upraised and backs turned, an armed, unmasked bandit staged a daylight holdup at the W. Main St. store of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company at 4:45 Tuesday afternoon and escaped with $49.19, all the money that was in the cash register.

Warning Considine "not to hurry out to report this, as I am coming back next week," the bandit ran out of the store, through the boulevard in the center of Main St., west of the grocery, and is believed to have escaped in an automobile parked on the opposite side of the street.

Considine and Long hurried out of the grocery as soon as the screen door slammed behind the bandit, and saw him disappear across the street, near the B. and O. railroad, but further view was concealed by shrubbery in the boulevard. Considine said that several persons in the neighborhood said that they had seen a man answering his description of the bandit enter a car which was parked on the opposite side of the street and drive away. Police also investigated a theory that he might have escaped afoot through the railroad yards.

Considine told police that he believed the bandit was a stranger who entered the grocery in the forenoon and made a small purchase. He was alone in the grocery when the bandit entered in the afternoon. A revolver in his hand was concealed by a handkerchief and neither man saw the weapon until, as the stranger approached them, he jerked off the concealing handkerchief, thrust the gun against Considine's stomach, and forced both men toward the rear of the store where he told them to stand with their backs turned and hands upraised.

"I wouldn't do this but I need the money, and I am going to get it," he said. He scooped up all the money in the cash register and with the gun still in his hand asked Considine and Long if they had any money in their pockets. When Considine told him that he had about a dollar, the bandit told him to "keep it." Long said that he had no money. The bandit did not search either man.

Considine ran to the grocery of Elmer Pratt in the neighborhood and notified police headquarters. Patrolman J. E. Craig made a thorough search of the west end of the city and railroad yards, which failed to disclose a trace of the bandit. Considine was unable to furnish a description of the automobile in which the hold-up man is believed to have made his escape.

The robber was described as about 35 years of age, fair complexioned, light hair, weighing about 155 pounds and about five feet six inches tall. He was attired in dark gray trousers, light soft shirt, and straw sailor hat. He was coatless.

Considine said the fact that he had banked money at noon prevented the bandit making a much larger haul.

GAZETTE TO STAGE FIGHT PARTY

Will Broadcast Tunney-Heeney Go Here Thursday

Every fight fan is invited to THE GAZETTE radio-fight party in front of the GAZETTE Bldg., S. Detroit St., Thursday evening.

For the advantage of fans who want to hear the action story of the battle between Gene Tunney, world's champion heavyweight and Tom Heeney, the Anzac blacksmith challenger, this newspaper is arranging its popular radio hook-up to pick up the fight report from the air Thursday night.

Graham McNamee, king of radio announcers, will broadcast the blow-by-blow story from the ring side with all the pep and action he can put into a fight broadcast. Fans will remember his remarkable work as announcer for Tunney's last two fights, when the champion met and defeated the ex-champion Jack Dempsey. Phillips Carter, Prof. Raffaele Biondandi, director of the Geete Observatory of Fianza.

In an interview published here, Prof. Biondandi declares that the earth at the present time is passing through one of its route crises, and that an earth storm is at hand.

He further predicts violent quakes in Palestine and the Greek archipelago and lighter ones in Crimea and Italy.

"All these shocks," the professor was quoted as saying, "are but the prelude to still greater and wider reawakening of the subterranean forces which have been under way for some time, and will reach its climax next autumn with violent manifestations in the south of Europe."

Prof. Biondandi does not believe that earthquakes are merely the result of subterranean dislocations, and subsidences, as many suppose. After twenty years research work he has come to the conclusion that they arise from one uniform source, and are due to variation of gravity.

The Italian scientist added: "My investigations led to the extraordinary discovery that the force of gravity is subject to rapid variations. It is not possible to regard any earthquake as the result of a local earth movement in any particular zone. The primary cause has a purely cosmic origin. It is the same as that which produces the mountain—creating wrinkles of the earth's crust."

It is upon those principles that Prof. Biondandi says he was able to predict accurately recent earthquakes in Alaska, South America, Greece and Bulgaria.

CORONER PROBING STINSON TRAGEDY

Dr. James M. Harsha, coroner of Fayette County, is making an investigation of circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. Eldora Stinson of Washington C. H., sister of former Deputy Sheriff John Baughn of Jamestown, who was killed in an automobile wreck July 14.

WILL YOU HELP?

Xenia has long needed an auditorium which the public would be free to use for large and small audiences. Such an auditorium is now under way in Shawnee Park and it will be a gift to the public, largely from the generous donations of former residents of Xenia, together with equally generous donations from a half dozen Xenians who are interested in our community.

So far the committee has sought only large subscriptions, but they are still several thousand dollars from the goal necessary to complete the erection of the building. It is planned as a memorial for our Home-Coming and every effort will be made to complete it for that occasion so that there may be a central meeting point for our visitors. After that event, it will be for the use of the general public.

The committee is sure that there are many people living in Xenia who want to have a part in this memorial building and we are now ready to accept small donations. If you feel that you want to contribute to this fund so that your name may be placed on a printed list to go in the corner stone of the building, please hand your donations to Mr. M. L. Wolf, Cashier of the Citizens National Bank. Contributions of any amount will be acceptable. School children may give as small as fifty cents and their names will be placed on the list of donors. The corner stone will be laid with appropriate ceremonies soon, so please act promptly if you wish to have a part in the erection of the building.

Will all contributors who have thus far pledged, please hand check to Mr. Wolf at once.

The committee is appealing to all public-spirited citizens to help in the erection of this building which will stand for many years as a tribute to the enterprise and patriotism of the citizens generally.

THE COMMITTEE.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD'S ENTREATY—My son give me thine heart, and let thine eyes observe my ways.—Prov. 23:26.

REASON FOR BEING FRIENDLY

The voters of German descent in America in swinging to Hoover, are paying a just debt. Their leaders know that it was above all, Hoover who persuaded the Allied leaders to relax the blockade around starving Germany in 1919 so that American foodstuffs could pull the German people through the dismal spring which followed their defeat.

The French bitterly fought this, and would have maintained the blockade even though the fighting was over and the German children were dying by the thousands. The raising of the blockade on foodstuffs accomplished two things—it enabled the Germans to survive until the autumn harvest, and it permitted the American farmer to market at a good price a crop which had been contracted by the allies and then cancelled with the armistice.

Hoover thus fought off the inevitable agricultural depression for one more year. The Allies permitted the entry of foodstuffs into Germany, but stipulated that they must be distributed by Hoover. The raising of this blockade was only possible through him—a man whom both sides knew to be fair and disinterested.

IRONY OF FATE

Some of the shivering descendants of the Caesars, sprinkled over the white Arctic ice by Nobile, have been picked up. It now seems we are nearing the unhappy ending of a pathetic drama in which tragedy is blended with a grim comedy. Of course Nobile should never have started, and of course it was in the grisly cards that Amundsen, his rival, should have perished in attempting to rescue the pompous and vain commander.

Still another ray of grim humor lights the latest rescue. This Fascist expedition, undertaken by the most gaudily reactionary government of Europe, was hauled in by the slack of its pants and nap of its gold lace collar by the ice breaker Krassin, manned by Communists and operated by the Soviet government to keep open the Arctic trade channels in the late spring and early fall. It was the Communists, not the Socialists, who displayed the heroism, and the Soviet government, not the Italian dictatorship which lands on the first page.

All these things Mussolini can read by the cold northern light if he will take that Napoleonic hand out of his bosom long enough to pick up the morning paper.

It is so very hard to keep both the times and the people good.

The hand that rocks the cradle doesn't roll the cigaret.

The only thing wrong with any country is the people.

It takes two to start a fight, but only one to finish it.

THERE'S A REASON

There's a reason. It may take some investigation to find it, but it is always there. About 20 years ago a young man came from a Slavic country in Europe and settled in New York City like thousands of other young men from Poland, Bulgaria, Servia. Not long ago this man paid millions for one of the famous residences on Fifth avenue. He tore it down and built an apartment house, costing another million or two. Not content with that deal, he turned around and bought another rich piece of Fifth avenue property, tore it down and built another apartment house.

Investigation shows that this young man, when he landed here, began to put in long hours and hard work. He paid no attention to the clock, ate little, played little. There is always a reason.

THE BEST SELLER

The Bible or a part of it has been printed in a fresh language every six weeks for the last ten years. In one year 435 tons of scripture were sent out from Bible House, London. In that printing house one can see Bibles written with a twig or bamboo staves, and on bark with ink made of soot. There one can see a Latin Bible written by hand probably in the eleventh century. There one can see the first Bible ever printed in an Indian language—and the first Bible ever printed in North America in any language—the Bible for the Indians made by John Eliot.

The Bible is the greatest of all sellers.

THE EXPECTED

Men and women can, for years, maintain the outside while the inside is crumbling. They trifle with their habits and health. They trifle with their business relationships. They forget that it is an ordered universe, that nothing ever happens by chance. After awhile the fall comes. Somebody says: "Who would have thought it? It is always the unexpected that happens." That is not true. It is the expected that happens. The outside is maintained while the inside is crumbling. We can't keep it up. The expected happens.

CARD-INDEXING YOURSELF

The average Frenchman has himself card-indexed like an American industry. He knows what he makes and what he spends. He knows where the money goes. Do you? He keeps household books. He saves himself a lot of grief a lot of disappointment, and shock.

BACK OF BARBARISM

Contempt for human life is the first and surest sign of a return to barbarism. Crime is a definite departure from the highest ideals of which the human race is capable. What is it in the American people, what is it in the habit of life in the United States that predisposes us to lawlessness and crime?

Perhaps there is too much "what's the use" attitude in America. There are too many of us who say that nothing can be done about anything.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, July 25.—This is the place to look for unusual occupations that pay big money. One man gets $25,000 a year as a testator; another, $500 a week as a button designer; a third, commissions totalling $75,000 to $100,000 as an advisor on the organization of charity fund drives. The list can be extended indefinitely.

There is, for instance, one John Hanrahan, who devotes himself entirely to the profession of "magazine consultant," or physician and surgeon to all publishing houses. He takes them in hand, finds the flaws and prescribes remedies that attract advertising and circulation. He makes money at it and so do the magazines.

More than three-fourths of the Pullman cars that go out of New York have upper berths entirely empty. Travelers have a prejudice against them that compels railroad companies to provide lower berths for all who desire to travel. Yet, as all seasoned travelers know, there is more air and less train-motion in an upper berth. Barring slight inconvenience in getting in and out, which is unnecessary if the porter and his ladder are called, the only difference between upper and lower berth is the price and the length, the upper berth being slightly longer.

Americans are funny that way, as every one with anything to sell knows. When two articles are offered, the one with the higher price is the most favored, regardless of its quality. Almost every store simply has to offer goods in a variety of prices, not because the quality of the goods demands it, but because the women shopper demands a selection in prices.

New York has its "country stores," too. In every residential neighborhood, there is a peculiar store in between delicatessen, radio and drug stores. It has no special name, but has all the range and variety of the crossroads store. It also has its hangers-on, who loiter at the soft-drink stand or tobacco counter or electric appliance display to watch the purchases of customers and trade gossip. True to type, New York's country store is a social center.

Summer cooling systems of the bigger Broadway cinema palaces are so efficient as to be uncomfortable. So many persons sneeze in them that the managements provide aspirin tablets in all retiring rooms.

The accordion player in one of Broadway's highest paid orchestras was a blind beggar, who played the instrument to attract nickels and dimes until the orchestra leader happened to hear him play. He is married and has four children, but he and his wife are living apart. His wife says they were happy when he was a beggar, but now that he is getting $200 a week, he is too arrogant to live with.

Five of the six chorus beauties drafted a year ago from Broadway by Jean Patou as mannequins for his Paris fashion salon, have married millionaires, and met over there. Give the little girls a hand!

Girls don't wait until they're 20 to run away from home to New York now. The average age of the hundreds of runaway girls who annually come to the attention of the New York Girls' Service League, has dropped to 15. Many come to New York at 13.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

A friend of mine is the most successful salesman in his county at introducing a new-fangled type of heating plant. Other men who work just as hard as he does seem unable to do much more than half as well. I asked him for his secret.

"I simply cash in on the natural propagandist spirit that lies in every human breast," he told me. "Every man wants to see his friends have the same make of automobile and same breed of dog that he does. If you own an Alfordale and you see a friend about to buy a collie, you are inclined to say 'Now, it's your affair, but if you ask me, I wouldn't take any chances on a collie. I'd get an Alfordale!'"

"So I go to everybody who already owns one of our plants and ask him for names of friends who might be interested. I ask also for permission to use his name as reference. Since everybody loves to have people call up and ask for advice, such permission is readily granted. Indeed, most of the men I see on such an errand offer to call up their friends themselves and insist that they buy one of our plants. Thus every customer becomes an assistant salesman for me."

Chopin Film at Monte Carlo "La Valse d'Adieu" described as "a page from the life of Chopin" was recently shown at Monte Carlo. The film was produced by Henry Roussel, and was given a favorable reception.

HAIR DYES

This is not only an important subject, but one of primary interest. There are some women I know who are unusually fortunate in retaining the color of their hair until well past middle age. Other women turn gray in youth.

No woman turns gray overnight, whatever they may think on the subject. So, if, in the stages we recognize the condition it is possible that something may be done to prevent the development of gray hair.

Two prominent German physicians claim to have restored color to gray hair by giving sulphur and iron internally and of egg. I can see some reason for it being effective, but I have not experimented sufficiently to permit me to subscribe to the recorded statement.

The hair dye in common use very often contains arsenic, which I personally condemn most emphatically. It may do great and lasting harm.

Many of you have asked me from time to time ways of restoring color to the hair, and while my answers have not been too encouraging, I have tried to let you know the most harmless and most likely agents.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet For Children"

The Daily Foundation Diet Mrs. G. — You are still 55 pounds overweight, according to the rule of 110 pounds for 5 feet in height (in stocking feet) and 51-2 pounds for each inch over that, and you should continue to reduce your weight slowly until you reach normal.

It is very important while reducing, especially where there is considerable to lose, to have the diet include all the needed vitamins, mineral elements and protein; otherwise the system will suffer. The only things in diet that can be cut down on are the fats, starches and sugars. I will outline a foundation diet for you which you should have every day, reducing or not. If you go on 1,200 calories a day, you will have several hundred calories for things you like, for this foundation diet comes to 800-1000 C.

First: At least a half pound every day of some leafy vegetables (the green leaf vegetables are especially good) — lettuce, spinach, celery, asparagus, water-cress, beet top greens, cabbage, tomatoes, etc. A half pound of these, cooked or uncooked, without fat, will be approximately 50 calories. (Have raw carrots, raw cabbage, tomatoes — raw or cooked — and spinach often, for they are high in vitamins and minerals.)

Second: One-half pound of other vegetables, such as carrots, beets, onions, parsnips and squash, etc. These will approximate about 100 C. without fat.

Third: 200 to 300 C. of fruit, daily. (Good sized orange, apple, pear — 100 C. each.) It is best to take a large share of the vegetables and fruits raw.

Fourth: At least one pint of skim or buttermilk in some form — in cooking, drinks, or cheese. You need it for lime and complete protein. Children reducing should have at least three glasses of whole milk.)

Fifth: One medium small po-

Scalloped Potatoes with Meat. Scalloped Potatoes with Meat. Lettuce Salad. Sour Cream Dressing. Radishes. Buttered Beans. Gooseberry Preserves. Fruit Cup. Sour Cream Cake with Lemon Filling. Coffee.

I am taking it for granted that you have plenty of milk and cream to use in your daily menu, and am suggesting ways of using both sweet and sour. The cottage cheese might be served with gooseberry preserves for dessert and eaten with crackers. This would, of course, take the place of the cake and fruit cup.

Today's Recipes Scalloped Potatoes with Meat. Slice potatoes to nearly fill a glass baking dish, well buttered. Season each layer with salt, pepper, butter and dust with flour. Add rich milk, hot, to come within an inch of the top of the sliced potatoes. On top of this put lean pork chops, smoked ham, pork tenderloin or veal chops. When brown on one side turn and brown on the other.

Lettuce Salad. Sour Cream Dressing. Reserve some of the large curly leaves of the lettuce for the salad plates. Cut the remainder in ribbons with the kitchen scissors and slice several young spring onions. Take a half-cup of thick sour cream, season highly with salt, sugar, pepper and celery salt, and if you like, mustard; add vinegar to taste and beat in the cup until the cream is foamy, using a fork. Pour over the lettuce and onions, toss about with the fork until thoroughly mixed, heap on glass salad plates, dust with paprika and place crisp radishes on one side of the plate. Sliced hard-boiled eggs may be also used as a garnish.

Cottage Cheese. When making the clabber milk into cheese, watch carefully, for too hot a fire spoils the cheese and hardens it. This should be made early and left to drain until ready to be mixed. Break up with a fork, mix with enough thick cream to moisten, salt lightly and spread the top of the dish of cheese with jam.

LADY BALTIMORE CAKE One cup butter, two cups sugar, whites of six eggs, one teaspoon rose water, one cup sweet milk, three and one-half cups flour, two level teaspoons baking powder. Cream butter and sugar, then add milk and flavoring and flour in which baking powder has been sifted, lastly the eggs folded lightly into the dough. Bake in three layer cake tins.

Filling—Dissolve three cups granulated sugar, one cup boiling water, and cook until it threads. Pour over the beaten whites of three eggs, stirring constantly. To this add one cup chopped raisins, one cup chopped nuts (pecans preferred), five figs cut in thin strips. Ice top and sides. This recipe, of course, makes a large cake.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The party managers, Republican and Democratic alike, are taking the women's vote more seriously this campaign than ever before.

They have wanted all they could get of it, to be sure, from the adoption of the Nineteenth amendment, but not with the same ardor that they do now. For one thing, this looks like a close fight.

Then again, women seem to be increasingly interested in public issues. It behooves the rival groups of bosses each to turn this developing interest to its own party's account.

But more than anything else, the leaders made the discovery during the recent conventions that a woman politician can be just as good a politician as anybody else.

Previously, old-line masculinity had patronizingly recognized, here and there, one of the sisterhood as pretty fair at the game "for a woman."

Today, the slickest of the "G. O. P." crowd will take it as a matter of course that Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt is fully as capable at it as he is himself. His corresponding professional in the Jeffersonian bunch is prepared to make affidavit that Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross has nothing to learn from him.

Neither Mrs. Willebrandt nor Mrs. Ross exactly emerged from obscurity. Both were already very well known.

Still, Mrs. Willebrandt's reputation was not built so much on the fact that she was an assistant U. S. attorney general as on the circumstance that she was the first woman to hold that particular job.

As for Mrs. Ross — it was rather because she was a woman ex-governor than merely because she was ex-governor of Wyoming that she was famed. It was at Kansas City that

One Who Knows

A short time ago a letter was printed in this column from a girl who was engaged to a boy whom she loved with all her heart. They thought they were not in a financial position to marry, but she was willing to give him all a husband's privileges because she loved him so. I pleaded with her to be firm and told her that it was better to marry and work afterwards if they felt they could not wait. I also said a man was selfish to ask such a thing. Now comes a letter from a girl who knows whereof she speaks. She confirms my advice.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am writing this in answer to the girl who signed her letter Ramona. I say to you, Ramona, a thousand times, don't! Don't sacrifice your honor for love. Such love gives no reward. I am 23 and gave all for the man I loved, and today I only hold empty hands and a broken heart, while he has all life has to offer.

"A woman's honor is her only privacy of love, and when you sacrifice that the last resort of winning the one you love is lost, so please don't give a man your honor until he is willing to give you his name. A man who would ask such is not worthy of you, so don't. Your harvest will only be regret, after it's too late. One who is paying the price of such love."

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Several days ago my sister got a phone call from a boy who wouldn't tell his name. He asked for

The Meeting in the Skies

"Hello, Cousin Nightjar," cried the bird flying toward us, and the fellow we had been following replied:

"Greetings, Cousin Lyre-Tail. How are your feelings this day?"

"Oh, splendid, thank you only I have such a terrible time with this old tail of mine. It is forever catching in some thing and losing a feather. I do wish it was shorter. I never get over worrying about the old thing! How would you like to drag something behind you that is more than twice as long as your body? It is a perfect nuisance. I tell you. No later than this morning I got it stuck on the twig of a branch and what an awful time I did have pulling it free. I suppose my tail is all frayed out—take a look at it, cousin, will you?"

"The bird flitted about, and wife and I gasped. Now his back was toward us, and it was something queer about there was something queer about his tail. The thing was hardly a tail at all—only two curved feathers framed an empty space through which we could plainly see the sky."

"And how long it was! There could be no pleasure in carrying a thing like that about, although, of course, it did give the fellow a distinguishing air—certainly there was not another tail like it in all birdland. Then its owner's cousin spoke:

"It looks all right to me, Lyre-Tail," said he. "I don't believe you damaged it a bit. But I must admit every time I see you I am glad that mine is not close it like this (and he made that same curious motion that we had noticed when we first saw him). I couldn't fly nearly so fast nor so far if I kept it still."

"Of course you couldn't," Cousin Nightjar," replied the other. "And your making it like that is why everyone calls you Scissors-Tail. Isn't it? Good gracious, I thought we were alone. Cousin, did you know that there are two strangers near us?"

Next—"Flying Scissors."

JAMESTOWN BEATS WEST CARROLLTON CUBS SUNDAY 3-2

Jamestown added another victory to its win column, Sunday afternoon, when it defeated the strong West Carrollton Cubs at West Carrollton in a hotly contested game by the score of 3 to 2.

The game was mostly a pitchers battle between Evans, for the winners and Hall for the losers. Both twirled good ball, Evans allowing only seven hits, walked one man and struck out seven. Hall allowed eight, safe hits, walked three, and struck out nine.

Jamestown scored one run in the fourth when L. Hollingsworth, was safe on first when the first baseman let his easy roller get by stole second, took third on Piffey's single and scored on a long sacrifice fly to left field, by Evans. The Cubs tied the score in the fifth when Evans hit a batter with the bases full. They took the lead in the seventh when they chased in another run scoring on an out at first, with the bases full. Jamestown won the game in the eighth by chasing in two runs. Piffey got to first on four balls, Ary was safe on first when the pitcher threw wild to first, both runners advanced and scored when Bock doubled to center.

Jamestown will play the Bowersville Bayliffs, next Sunday, at Price Park, Jamestown.

ENJOYS GLORIOUS HEALTH; GLAD TO INDORSE KONJOLA

"It Completely Ended My Stomach Trouble," Says This Man

sands of people who were never benefited by any medicine or treatment before. It is especially beneficial in cases of stomach, liver, kidneys and bowel troubles, or rheumatism or neuritis.

Just a few days ago the following report was received from Mr. O. E. Gooding, No. 4 Miller Ave., Xenia, Ohio.

"I strongly indorse Konjola after the amazing relief it gave me from all my health troubles," said Mr. Gooding. "It ended my stomach trouble and my whole system has been greatly benefited."

"I had taken nearly every medicine on the market trying to rid myself of the terrible misery of stomach trouble. I would become distressed after meals and all the medicine that I would take for relief had no effect upon me. The gas on my stomach caused me to become short of breath and it was almost impossible for me to eat anything. I had such terrible dizzy spells that I could scarcely walk without staggering and would nearly fall. I finally got in such a bad condition that I could not eat and was bothered very much by constipation. In spite of taking all kinds of laxatives the constipation came right back again. I would have the most terrible headaches that seemed to always stay right in the back of my head. These troubles gradually grew worse until they finally affected my nerves. The least little noise would upset me so that I would go to pieces. Then Konjola was brought to my attention and I was told of the results other people were getting from this medicine. So I made up my mind to give it a trial. It went right to the source of my health troubles. By the time I had finished the first bottle of Konjola, I knew I had at last found the medicine I had always been looking for. My stomach never bothered me in the least any more and the gas bloating does not come over me. I am never dizzy and I can walk any place I want to, without becoming the least bit dizzy. Konjola cleaned the poisons from my system, making future laxatives unnecessary. My nerves are stronger and at night I can go to sleep the minute I get into bed. The next morning I get up feeling full of pep and vigor. Konjola surely did the work for me and I want to indorse this medicine to others."

"The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given."

HEENEY BUILT LIKE DEPOT

Marshal Otey Walker Says It Will Take Banana Peel To Down Challenger

By MARSHAL OTEY WALKER
Sports Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 25.—I said I didn't see how anybody could lick Gene Tunney unless he stood still.

And now I don't see how anyone can whip Tom Heeneey unless he moves, because he is built along the lines of the Hootstown union depot—two stories high, square at the ends and plenty of material in between.

The way Tom looks to me, lists ought to bounce off him like scalded off a movie star.

But if Tunney wants a tip on how to floor Heeneey, I can give it to him. The champ should come into the ring eating a banana, being careful to throw the peel in front of Tom's chair. When Heeneey starts to get up he would slip on the peel and land in what, to say the least, would be an undignified, not to say embarrassing, position.

By the time Heeneey had crawled up out of the hole he had knocked in the floor the referee could count ten by skipping the odd numbers.

It's been done before.

I saw Heeneey today at tea, to which I had been invited by one of his English managers. I forgot to say he has three English, four American and two New Zealand managers. Fact is, he seems to be managed in every language but the Scandinavian.

While at tea I learned another thing. It is that when an Englishman invites somebody to tea he really means tea. Being an American I couldn't understand that. These British certainly are quaint.

I got all prepared for this tea, bringing along my favorite corker and two bottles of tonics.

But if Tunney wants a tip on how to floor Heeneey, I can give it to him. The champ should come into the ring eating a banana, being careful to throw the peel in front of Tom's chair. When Heeneey starts to get up he would slip on the peel and land in what, to say the least, would be an undignified, not to say embarrassing, position.

SAYS TOM HAS FIGHTING HEART

By JOHNNY DUNDEE

Undeclared World's Featherweight Champion and Former Junior Lightweight Champion
Written Exclusively for Central Press and The Gazette

FAIRHAVEN, N. J., July 25.—The outstanding thing about Thomas Heeneey that impresses me as I watch his workouts is his heart.

Heeneey has plenty of courage and plenty of spirit. He is a man who is in the training ring shows it. There has never been any question about it, either, in the fast action of actual ring warfare. Heeneey never permits an expression of annoyance to cross his face. Even when he is clipped severely on the chin or ear by a sparring partner his face maintains the same even, stolid look of determination.

Judging from the way he goes about his training I figure that Heeneey considers himself a man of destiny just as Gene Tunney did in the first Dempsey fight. Tunney was convinced that he alone was the man destined to lift the title from Jack Dempsey.

Heeneey is convinced that he is the man destined to beat Tunney. And nobody can tell him different. When asked how he was going to fight the champion he merely said "Just the same as Risko, Sharkey or anybody else." They throw a fighter in the ring with Tom and he immediately goes to work on him. No nerves, no wobbling, no over-anxiety. That is an ideal temperament for a boxer to make a consistent showing.

And another thing. Heeneey is going to make this fight July 26 a good one. He is an aggressive, boring type of slugger. If two Tunneys got in there the battle would be interesting, from a scientific standpoint but hardly pleasing to the average fan. Heeneey will keep Tunney on the move continually. He never loafs and constantly follows his man from corner to corner shooting choppy right hooks and long looping lefts with plenty of sting to them.

Heeneey is the sort of man who realizes the tremendous opportunity he has before him. He realizes he is fighting for the championship of the world. He started from an obscure beginning and that determination that so impresses me now has pulled him through the long tough row of challengers he had to beat off to meet the champion.

Heeneey is a frequent puncher. In one round of three minutes Heeneey will throw on the average two punches to Tunney's one. He does not impress me as being speedy on his feet as Gene but he is sturdy underpinning and is less likely to fall from a blow on the chin or midsection.

You will have noticed that he

BELL BUZZARD IS SILENCED BY DEATH

MARYSVILLE, O., July 25.—The bell buzzard which has frequented Union County for years, and became known to many farmers who have stopped in the fields to listen to the tinkling of the bell as it soars overhead, will be seen no more. The huge bird was found dead on a farm in Jackson Twp., the bell attached to its neck. The strap showed no signs of wear. It is believed to be a small size cow bell.

ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

Flavia always managed to have a lot of pretty girls around her studio.

READ THIS FIRST:

Janet Mary James, eighteen, sweet and good and clever, has an ambition to go on the stage. Helped by her Uncle Jules in France, Janet goes to New York, where the very first evening she is hit by a taxi but is not seriously injured. At the hospital she meets Dr. Ballard Riley, a big, handsome fellow, who the nurses say is a woman hater. Dr. Riley jokes with Janet when he finds she has just arrived from Big Sandy, Kentucky, to find fame and fortune in the big city. He lectures her, and gives her a lot of advice. Janet is overjoyed when Ballard Riley asks her for a date. The woman hater dating her! At the Follies Janet meets Flavia Marlowe, about fifty years old, smartly gowned, modern and rich. Flavia is a patroness of the arts in Greenwich Village. She is just beginning to wrinkle and trying to hide it.

CHAPTER VII

Besides, Flavia always managed to have a lot of young pretty girls around her studio. It was so easy to get plenty of men to call when you could say that there was a charming new friend for them to meet and young were quite sure she would drop in. That is a favorite trick of the delectable woman.

Flavia, in her boudoir, took up a mirror and scanned her face carefully. She shivered. There were tell-tale lines that no beauty treatment could possibly erase. The thought struck her with cold force, and she closed her eyes. A lump came into her throat and she bit her lips to keep back the tears.

Old age! Oh, could it be possible that she, Flavia Marlowe, would so soon have to give in to the monster time. A sudden rage swept over her, and she cursed, under her breath, the unfairness of not being able to control life. She thought of the beauty of Janet and tried to imagine her growing old and withering. Of the softness of her face passing away, and the luster of her eyes dimming.

Yes, she was growing old. Perhaps two or three years, yet, she might live and enjoy life as she had before. But not much longer than that. Flavia remembered the girls with whom she had grown up, and was suddenly proud of how much more attractive and youthful she had remained than they. Why, they were old!

Flavia's little Japanese maid, whom she called Lotus Flower, called her to the telephone. It was Janet, whose eager young voice told her she was just about ready to start down to see her. She had told her to come down for tea and stay for dinner. It was nearly five.

Perhaps others would soon drop in. The tea hour was seldom without its surprise. Flavia rather looked forward to it on that account. She loved to entertain. It took her away from herself, and for a time gave her a chance to forget.

She threw back her head and sailed into her dressing room. She determined to find the most attractive tea gown she had, and put all silly thoughts behind her. As long as she was getting away with it, why cross the bridge before her time was up!

She selected a clinging affair that trailed the floor. It was soft, blue georgette, with wide flaring sleeves. Fluffing her hair that she had wisely allowed to become snow white, Flavia noted that the blue in her eyes was the same as that of her gown—that the color made her hair white as snow. Her face was young, in contrast with the little tendrils of white hair that played softly about her high forehead. Flavia, at that moment, was a stunning woman—interesting, fascinating, experienced. Flavia's experiences and money against youth and beauty! Certainly she had her advantages.

Janet had three dresses laid out on the bed. What to wear! What to wear! She sat down and studied them carefully. But before she could make up her mind she tried all three. The new rose she decided against because Mrs. Marlowe had seen that one. A black satin she felt was too drab. She would wear the white organdy.

And with the little soft lace hat that Esther Sherman had designed and labored over for days in the millinery class at school, she topped the simple little gown that was plain except for a ruffle around the neck and the sleeves that just hid her shoulders.

Janet looked about 14 when she left the hotel to take a subway to the Village. The sun was beating down mercilessly and Broadway was sweltering. Tired, worn men stood in groups in front of the theaters or at corners, and talked grandly of big jobs to come in the fall, when they were to have their chance to play the sort of parts they were best fitted for.

As Janet crossed near Forty-third street a cab nearly hit an old woman with a dirty little white poodle. She helped the old soul across, and was given a profuse blessing and promised a special prayer. Janet marveled at the resemblance between the old poodle and the old lady. Her hair hung down in gray wisps over faded, half-closed eyes that strangely matched the hair and watery eyes of her pet.

Janet Mary wondered who she could be, and thought how out of place she looked on the busy theatrical thoroughfare. The old hag, too, had her thoughts. Tears came into her eyes as she slowly moved up the street, the kind, sweet face of the young thing who had helped her still lingering in her mind. Thirty years before, she had been Amee Delmont, the toast of the Roaring Forties. Her beauty and talent were sought by every one. She breathed a prayer that Janet would escape her fate—old age, poverty and loneliness. Then she bent slowly and took her little dog into her arms, crooning to him comfortingly, as though she were a little child, and blinked at her through his old eyes, kindly.

Janet hesitated before the door of Flavia Marlowe's studio, with her hand on the knocker. She was afraid it would make a loud noise. Suddenly she felt small and very young.

While she was standing there a big voice beside her, suddenly booming, frightened her nearly out of her wits:

"Is the little girl going to call on Flavia, too?"

Janet started and whirled. She saw a big man in tweeds, with a nice smile, and laughed weakly. "I've never been here before. I—I wasn't sure if this was Mrs. Marlowe's sure."

"It is." The big man towered above her, with his eyes fixed on her beautiful face. "I'll ring. I'm calling on her, too, don'tcha know." Lotus Flower opened the door. She was in a Japanese pants and coat affair that made her look about four feet tall, and decidedly sweet and appealing. Janet was horrified when the man brushed the cheek of the maid with a kiss that she tried to dodge. Lotus Flower did not smile. She glowered in a quiet, dignified manner. He chuckled the little Chinese under the chin and laughed loudly.

Then he took Janet's hand quite familiarly, and led her back to the studio, where Flavia always served tea. Flavia looked up and laughed as the two entered.

"Well, Janet, I see you and Sir Henry are friends. This is a surprise."

Janet crossed to Flavia and flopped beside her on a wide divan piled high with cushions. She tried to sound worldly.

"Oh, I've never seen the man before in my whole life. He just found me hesitating in front of the knocker and rang for me."

Flavia introduced him as Sir Henry Martindale. She did not mention Janet's last name. It was a little unconventional habit. Her girl friends were never spoken of except as Olivia or Madelon or Marta.

The bell rang again, and a young man skipped in, his hand on his side. Falling on his knees, he kissed the hem of Flavia's tea gown with a flourish.

Janet was an interested and amused spectator. He was presented as "Putty," after Flavia had bent and kissed him. His eyes lighted as they fell on Janet, sitting in her little white organdie, with hands folded in her lap. Her lace hat lay on the sofa beside her, and her hair framed her face in coronation braids. "Putty" Bigelow laughed his breath.

"Flav, my adored, where did you pick up this angel?"

Flavia smiled halfheartedly, but Sir Henry thought that her eyes narrowed. Could she be jealous? The look was fleeting, and she patted Janet's hand.

"Oh, bless it. I found it at the theater the other night, at its first show. Think of it! It comes from Kentucky."

"Fast women and beautiful horses and corn liquor with a mule kick." "Putty" looked down at Janet's slim, white legs, in their nude stockings, with approval he did not try to hide.

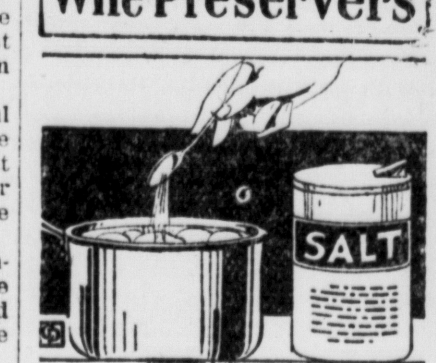

Her face flushed. Flavia admonished him that he must not be rude to "the child" and moved over so that he could sit beside her—away from Janet.

Sir Henry took in the situation with eyes that sparkled. He was amused. It was not difficult to see that "Putty" was smitten with the youth and charm of the new beauty. That gave him a chance to play the good Samaritan to Flavia, and take Janet off her hands.

NEW YORK, July 25.—Personal and confidential items about pictures and picture people:

To what extent are producers privileged to interfere in the private lives of its players? A producing firm is trying to prevent a scandal from involving one of its lady stars and a New York millionaire, claiming it has a right to protect one of its investments. The star is rebelling against the interference, insisting upon the right to live her own life.

The camera rarely does justice to the color of movie players' hair. Did you know Mary Astor, Nancy Carroll and Clara Bow are among the red-heads? Jack Pickford has heart trouble, and may never play again. The "Big Three" of filmdom now are Paramount, Metro-Goldwyn and Fox, the company known as First National having been shunted out of its position by Fox.

Jean Hersholt likes cold goose liver, blue shirts and "Strange Interlude." He can tell a gloriously funny story about holding hands with Mae West, actress famed for her "sin woman" parts on Broadway, at a seance, and holding converse with a fellow in a sheet who was supposed to be the ghost of Valentino.

About 25 per cent of U. S. movie theaters are due to close in the next two years, showmen predict. Chain competition has caused many cities to be overbuilt with theaters. There now are 19,000 movie houses in the country.

James Cruze and Cecil B. DeMille are now directors for Metro-Goldwyn. DeMille took his stars with him when he left Pathe. Eva Von Berne, imported by M-G-M to play with John Gilbert had to be round tables in the tiny dining room, one for the Bryants and one for the performers. The crew eats at a long table. If you want to get fat just join a show boat crew! There may not be a great variety of food, but there's always lots of it. At least that is true of the boat on which I am.

The Valley Belle always houses the sleeping quarters of the crew. In the Moonlight

Now that darkness has settled over the water and the moon is lighting the shore let's attend the show. River folk are filling down the bank, some in overalls, some in their Sunday best. As they step away from the box office they are greeted by "Cap'n Sam" Bryant, who can just about call each one of them by name—he's been trouping on the river close onto twenty-five years.

We are ushered to seats by a pretty member of the chorus. An orchestra, whose members also are actors, entertains us. "Shorty," the fireman by day, is selling peanuts and candy. There isn't a great deal of candy being sold because money isn't plentiful on the river now—especially in the coal regions. Hush! the lights have dimmed, the orchestra men have left the pit and gone through the trap door onto the stage, the big boys in the front row have stopped throwing peanuts and the curtain is going up.

A Play From Broadway
The play is "Broadway Jones," one of the most popular plays of George M. Cohan, noted New York producer-dramatist-actor. Billy Bryant always has been an admirer of Cohan since their vaudeville days when Billy was one of the "Four Bryants," and Georgia Cohan was one of the "Four Cohans." Cohan gave Bryant rights to all his plays and promised to spend two weeks on the boat playing the role of "Broadway."

It's essentially the same "Broadway Jones" that metropolitan audiences laughed at when it was new, but its jokes have been modernized. Old jokes don't "get by" on the river today. Years ago when the show boat was the only entertainment along the streams jokes that were slightly moth-eaten could be told, but today, when nearly everybody has his radio, he demands something new on the stage. "Folks come down to the boat," says Captain Billy, "asking: 'Did you hear that yam Will Rogers told last night?' or 'Did you listen in on Al Jolson?'" "Naturally, when they can tune in the very best of modern entertainment, at their own fireside, we have got to give them a better show than was necessary years ago."

We'll wait until tomorrow to see the show.

(Another dispatch tomorrow from the Show Boat.)

Farm Notes

CAREFUL SEEDING

Anticipating a shortage of seed wheat due to the short crop in Ohio this year, farmers should be particularly careful in securing their supply for seeding this fall, in the opinion of M. R. Maney of the Ohio Farm Bureau. A warning against seed wheat brought in from other sections of the country has just been received at the office of the Greene County Farm Bureau from Mr. Maney.

Ohio farmers have centered their attention on the production of soft winter wheats to which Ohio conditions are particularly adapted in Mr. Maney's opinion. Seed brought in from other sections may contain a sufficiently large percentage of other wheats to make its use inadvisable, while some stocks which may come in would be unadapted to Ohio conditions, in his opinion.

Through farm bureaus in all parts of the state, the Ohio farm bureau is attempting to secure and distribute supplies of re-cleaned quality wheats of Trumbull and Fulhio wheats which are known to be pure and high yielding on Ohio farms. While this supply will not be certified seed it will be high quality wheat which will give good results in the field and prevent mixtures which would lower the standards of the Ohio product. Best yields of wheat, according to Mr. Maney, are expected in the northwestern part of the state, particularly in the vicinity of Wayne County. There will be a supply of Ohio grown wheat ample to care for seed needs of all Ohio farmers if demands and supply can be pooled through the organization, he says.
